Non-UNMC email

Hi Chad, and Happy Friday,

The Office of Population Affairs (OPA) is happy to continue our involvement with this important work – in addition to me, Cynda Hall in OPA is also integrally involved in our HIV prevention efforts, so it would be good to include her.

Thanks so much, and warm regards,

Sue

Subject: Please Read: Invitation to Join Stakeholder Group
Importance: High

Greetings,

On behalf of the National Partners for the Elimination of Perinatal HIV Transmission in the U.S., I want to invite you to be a part of the Stakeholder Group for the Elimination of Perinatal HIV Transmission (formerly the EMCT Stakeholders Group).

This new iteration of the Stakeholders Group builds upon previous work while also addressing three initial priorities identified by the CDC:

- 1) Improving Surveillance Systems
- 2) Integrating and Improving HIV and Mental Health/Substance Abuse Care
- 3) Providing Comprehensive Treatment and Prevention Services for HIV and Sexual & Reproductive Health

Enclosed is a letter and diagram that describes the current structure of the Stakeholders Group; information about how you can support your colleagues and communities through a national learning network; and a means for opting out of more time-intensive aspects of the Stakeholder commitment.

We hope you will choose to work with us on this important issue. We need your time and talent to improve the lives of women and families affected by HIV and get to zero transmissions!

Sincerely,
Chad Abresch

Hi All,

Hope you're having a "splendid" weekend – I just approved the requisition – never received the usual notification from UFMS, but when I went in, it was there... so, on to Wen. I will let her know it's in her queue.

Happy 4th, and enjoy the sun!

Subject: Vice Media: Comment on HELP committee memo on Diane Foley

Hi Tara,

I have an exclusive on a memo from the Senate HELP committee on Diane Foley's views, including on abortion, adoption, and comprehensive sex ed that we are publishing at 4pm.

<https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/4575632-Diane-Foley-DASPA-Dear-Colleague-07052018.html>

<https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/4575881-Diane-Foley-DASPA-Memo-7052018.html>

Does HHS have a comment on these statement Foley made during her employment with Life Network?

Foley compared abortion to slavery and the Holocaust September 2016, starting at 36:15, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM> "People who are very adamant about abortion will say, 'this is an issue of women's rights.' It's which life has more value," Foley said. "That sounds a lot like what our nation went through in the 1800s, right? When somebody decided somebody's life wasn't worth living or they weren't [worth] quite as much—they were worth what, three-fifths of a human? Is that right? What about what was happening in Europe during the World Wars, where there [were] groups of people that were determined they weren't worth as much?"

Foley said adoption was worse than choosing to parent the child resulting from an unintended pregnancy

September 2016, starting at 38:00, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM>
Foley outlined the three choices people have: parent the child, give it up for adoption, or have an abortion. She said that having the baby is thought of as "death to them and the life they thought they were going to have," adding. "The next choice is, let's do an adoption plan. Well, that's a double death, because not only does it interrupt [the parents] plans for the next several months, right? But then their child is going to be adopted, and they're going to grow up thinking they've been abandoned by their parents. So they're going to have all kinds of issues with their life. So that's a double death. That's worse.

She said comprehensive sex ed encourages kids to have sex

The report also outlined more of Foley's views on sex ed. "The only thing contraceptive education helps with is the physical consequences of sexual activity," Foley said in a 2009 interview, adding that condoms offer inadequate protection against STIs and that sexual activity among teens can have permanently damaging effects. She also said of comprehensive sex ed programs that she thinks such education "encourages kids to have sex." In a 2010 interview she claimed that it's ineffective to teach condom use alongside abstinence. "I don't think you can do those two things in the same class setting, because I think the message of waiting for sex gets diluted if you are saying, 'But, just in case, use a condom.'" Meanwhile, study after study shows that abstinence-only sex ed not only fails to delay the age at which teenagers have sex, it also doesn't reduce rates of unintended pregnancy or sexually transmitted diseases.

Thank you,
Susan

Dear Colleagues:

I am pleased to announce that Diane Foley, M.D., FAAP has joined OASH as our Deputy Assistant Secretary for Population Affairs (DASPA)..

A board-certified pediatrician, Dr. Foley brings more than 30 years of extensive adolescent sexual health and maternal/child health (MCH) expertise to OASH, having spent many years in the field in both academia and private practice. She has worked with HHS previously as a grantee, having coordinated and implemented multiple MCH grants.

Most recently, Dr. Foley has been in private practice of pediatric and adolescent medicine in Colorado. She also has served, since 2012, as the Director of Medical Ministries for Global Partners of the Wesleyan Church.

Dr. Foley received her doctor of medicine degree from the Indiana University School of Medicine, and did her pediatric residency at Methodist Hospital of Indiana.

Please join me in congratulating Dr. Foley on her appointment.

Diane will be working from suite 700 of the Tower Building and can be reached at (240) 453-2888.

I also want to thank Valerie Huber for serving as Acting DASPA since January.

Subject: Vice Media: Comment on HELP committee memo on Diane Foley

Hi Tara,

I have an exclusive on a memo from the Senate HELP committee on Diane Foley's views, including on abortion, adoption, and comprehensive sex ed that we are publishing at 4pm.

<https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/4575632-Diane-Foley-DASPA-Dear-Colleague-07052018.html>

<https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/4575881-Diane-Foley-DASPA-Memo-7052018.html>

Does HHS have a comment on these statement Foley made during her employment with Life Network?

Foley compared abortion to slavery and the Holocaust
September 2016, starting at 36:15, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM>
“People who are very adamant about abortion will say, ‘this is an issue of women’s rights.’ It’s which life has more value,” Foley said. “That sounds a lot like what our nation went through in the 1800s, right? When somebody decided somebody’s life wasn’t worth living or they weren’t [worth] quite as much—they were worth what, three-fifths of a human? Is that right? What about what was happening in Europe during the World Wars, where there [were] groups of people that were determined they weren’t worth as much?”

Foley said adoption was worse than choosing to parent the child resulting from an unintended pregnancy
September 2016, starting at 38:00, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM>

Foley outlined the three choices people have: parent the child, give it up for adoption, or have an abortion. She said that having the baby is thought of as “death to them and the life they thought they were going to have,” adding. “The next choice is, let’s do an adoption plan. Well, that’s a double death, because not only does it interrupt [the parents] plans for the next several months, right? But then their child is going to be adopted, and they’re going to grow up thinking they’ve been abandoned by their parents. So they’re going to have all kinds of issues with their life. So that’s a double death. That’s worse.

She said comprehensive sex ed encourages kids to have sex. The report also outlined more of Foley’s views on sex ed. “The only thing contraceptive education helps with is the physical consequences of sexual activity,” Foley said in a 2009 interview, adding that condoms offer inadequate protection against STIs and that sexual activity among teens can have permanently damaging effects. She also said of comprehensive sex ed programs that she thinks such education “encourages kids to have sex.” In a 2010 interview she claimed that it’s ineffective to teach condom use alongside abstinence. “I don’t think you can do those two things in the same class setting, because I think the message of waiting for sex gets diluted if you are saying, ‘But, just in case, use a condom.’” Meanwhile, study after study shows that abstinence-only sex ed not only fails to delay the age at which teenagers have sex, it also doesn’t reduce rates of unintended pregnancy or sexually transmitted diseases.

Thank you,
Susan

Trump's Head of Family Planning Compared Abortion to Slavery and the Holocaust

Diane Foley, who runs the federal family planning program known as Title X, was also critical of adoption as an option for women with unintended pregnancies, according to a Senate memo shared exclusively with Tonic.

The Trump administration's pick to run the federal family planning program known as Title X compared abortion to slavery and the Holocaust, according to a memo shared exclusively with Tonic by Washington Senator Patty Murray.

The memo outlines the ways in which Diane Foley, a political appointee with extreme and medically inaccurate views on women's health, could reshape the nation's only source of federal funding for family planning services, including low- or no-cost birth control, STD testing and treatment, and breast and cervical cancer screenings. The program serves 4 million people each year, primarily low-income women and women of color.

ADVERTISEMENT

Title X grants already can't be used for abortions but changes proposed in May from the administration would mean that health centers that provide abortion with non-federal funds or even refer patients where to get an abortion would be blocked from applying for the grant money. This change, coupled with guidelines that prioritize programs that focus on abstinence-only sex ed and natural family planning and remove the requirement to offer the full range of FDA-approved birth control methods, could mean that deceptive crisis pregnancy centers may be eligible for family planning funding for the first time. Overall, the changes and Foley's appointment could shift the Title X program from being evidence based to one that is rooted in ideology.

Foley is a pediatrician and, until 2017, was the president and CEO of Life Network, a Christian anti-choice group that operates two crisis pregnancy centers in Colorado. Life Network offers "sexual risk avoidance programming," aka abstinence-only sex ed, for middle and high school students, and its crisis pregnancy centers try to convince pregnant women not to have abortions.

Foley was appointed in late May and her official title is deputy assistant secretary for population affairs, or DASPA; the person in that role oversees the Title X program. As Tonic reported in March, the DASPA now has the final say on which groups will be awarded Title X grants for the first time since the late 80s; since then, grant decisions had been made in consultation with a group of officials.

Watch Diane Foley's 2016 interview with VICE News:

Foley falsely believes that abortion has long-lasting physical and mental health effects and the new memo—prepared by Democratic staff of the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions (HELP)—outlines even more of her extreme, inaccurate views.

The report cites a September 2016 presentation at Charis Bible College in which Foley compared a constitutionally protected medical procedure to targeting people for lifelong servitude or execution based exclusively on their race or religion (starting at 36:30).

“People who are very adamant about abortion will say, ‘this is an issue of women’s rights.’ It’s which life has more value,” Foley said. “That sounds a lot like what our nation went through in the 1800s, right? When somebody decided somebody’s life wasn’t worth living or they weren’t [worth] quite as much—they were worth what, three-fifths of a human? Is that right? What about what was happening in Europe during the World Wars, where there [were] groups of people that were determined they weren’t worth as much?”

According to the memo, Foley was also critical of adoption as an option for unintended pregnancy—something anti-choicers often suggest as an alternative to abortion—saying it was worse than choosing to continue a pregnancy. In the same September 2016 speech, she outlined the three choices people have: parent the child, give it up for adoption, or have an abortion (starting at 38:00). She said that having the baby is thought of as “death to [the parents] and the life they thought they were going to have,” adding, “The next choice is, let’s do an adoption plan. Well, that’s a double death, because not only does it interrupt [the parents] plans for the next several months, right? But then their child is going to be adopted, and they’re going to grow up thinking they’ve been abandoned by their parents. So they’re going to have all kinds of issues with their life. So that’s a double death. That’s worse.” She did not criticize adoption in such a way while on camera with VICE News earlier that year.

The report also outlined more of Foley’s views on sex ed. “The only thing contraceptive education helps with is the physical consequences of sexual activity,” Foley said in a 2009 interview, adding that condoms offer inadequate protection against STIs and that sexual activity among teens can have permanently damaging effects. She also said of comprehensive sex ed programs that she thinks such education “encourages kids to have sex.” In a 2010 interview she claimed that it’s ineffective to teach condom use alongside abstinence. “I don’t think you can do those two things in the same class setting, because I think the message of waiting for sex gets diluted if you are saying, ‘But, just in case, use a condom.’” Meanwhile, study after study shows that abstinence-only sex ed not only fails to delay the age at which teenagers have sex, it also doesn’t reduce rates of unintended pregnancy or sexually transmitted diseases.

Before she was the CEO of Life Network, Foley ran the organization’s abstinence-only education program. Its five-day high school program tells students that “premarital sex makes you prone to infidelity while reducing your ability to bond with your future spouse,” according to the report.

Murray is the ranking member of the HELP Committee and her office previously released a report highlighting the ideological views of birth control skeptic and former Title X head Teresa Manning, who has since left the administration, and Charmaine Yoest, the former head of public affairs for the Department of Health and Human Services who believed IUDs cause abortions, who is now working in Office of National Drug Control Policy. These appointees spent their careers opposing birth control and abortion.

In a letter to colleagues today about the new memo on Foley, Murray said she was writing to ensure Senators were “aware of the harmful, inaccurate views” held by the political appointee recently put in charge of the federal family planning program. “Especially in light of the Supreme Court vacancy and President Trump's repeated commitments to strike down Roe v. Wade, it is more important than ever that we work together to shine a spotlight on the Trump-Pence Administration's constant efforts to undermine women's access to reproductive healthcare,” she wrote.

“This appointment is particularly concerning given that under the Administration's proposed policy changes, this appointee, Dr. Diane Foley, will be empowered to impose her deeply harmful views on women and young people,” she said, adding, “Her efforts to spread misinformation, undermine women's access to basic healthcare services, and roll back women's reproductive rights are especially dangerous given the office she now leads.”

Tonic contacted an HHS spokesperson for comment by email and did not hear back by the time of publication. We'll update this story with a response should we receive one.

Hi Tara,

I have an exclusive on a memo from the Senate HELP committee on Diane Foley's views, including on abortion, adoption, and comprehensive sex ed that we are publishing at 4pm.

<https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/4575881-Diane-Foley-DASPA-Memo-7052018.html>

Does HHS have a comment on these statement Foley made during her employment with Life Network?

Foley compared abortion to slavery and the Holocaust
September 2016, starting at 36:15, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM>
“People who are very adamant about abortion will say, ‘this is an issue of women’s rights.’ It’s which life has more value,” Foley said. “That sounds a lot like what our nation went through in the 1800s, right? When somebody decided somebody’s life wasn’t worth living or they weren’t [worth] quite as much—they were worth what, three-fifths of a human? Is that right? What about what was happening in Europe during the World Wars, where there [were] groups of people that were determined they weren't worth as much?"

Foley said adoption was worse than choosing to parent the child resulting from an unintended pregnancy

September 2016, starting at 38:00, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM>
Foley outlined the three choices people have: parent the child, give it up for adoption, or have an abortion. She said that having the baby is thought of as "death to them and the life they thought they were going to have," adding. "The next choice is, let's do an adoption plan. Well, that's a double death, because not only does it interrupt [the parents] plans for the next several months, right? But then their child is going to be adopted, and they're going to grow up thinking they've been abandoned by their parents. So they're going to have all kinds of issues with their life. So that's a double death. That's worse.

She said comprehensive sex ed encourages kids to have sex

The report also outlined more of Foley's views on sex ed. "The only thing contraceptive education helps with is the physical consequences of sexual activity," Foley said in a 2009 interview, adding that condoms offer inadequate protection against STIs and that sexual activity among teens can have permanently damaging effects. She also said of comprehensive sex ed programs that she thinks such education "encourages kids to have sex." In a 2010 interview she claimed that it's ineffective to teach condom use alongside abstinence. "I don't think you can do those two things in the same class setting, because I think the message of waiting for sex gets diluted if you are saying, 'But, just in case, use a condom.'" Meanwhile, study after study shows that abstinence-only sex ed not only fails to delay the age at which teenagers have sex, it also doesn't reduce rates of unintended pregnancy or sexually transmitted diseases.

Thank you,

Dear Colleagues:

I am pleased to announce that Diane Foley, M.D., FAAP has joined OASH as our Deputy Assistant Secretary for Population Affairs (DASPA)..

A board-certified pediatrician, Dr. Foley brings more than 30 years of extensive adolescent sexual health and maternal/child health (MCH) expertise to OASH, having spent many years in the field in both academia and private practice. She has worked with HHS previously as a grantee, having coordinated and implemented multiple MCH grants.

Most recently, Dr. Foley has been in private practice of pediatric and adolescent medicine in Colorado. She also has served, since 2012, as the Director of Medical Ministries for Global Partners of the Wesleyan Church.

Dr. Foley received her doctor of medicine degree from the Indiana University School of Medicine, and did her pediatric residency at Methodist Hospital of Indiana.

Please join me in congratulating Dr. Foley on her appointment.

Diane will be working from suite 700 of the Tower Building and can be reached at (240) 453-2888.

I also want to thank Valerie Huber for serving as Acting DASPA since January.

Subject: Vice Media: Comment on HELP committee memo on Diane Foley

Hi Tara,

I have an exclusive on a memo from the Senate HELP committee on Diane Foley's views, including on abortion, adoption, and comprehensive sex ed that we are publishing at 4pm.

<https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/4575632-Diane-Foley-DASPA-Dear-Colleague-07052018.html>

<https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/4575881-Diane-Foley-DASPA-Memo-7052018.html>

Does HHS have a comment on these statement Foley made during her employment with Life Network?

Foley compared abortion to slavery and the Holocaust September 2016, starting at 36:15, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM> "People who are very adamant about abortion will say, 'this is an issue of women's rights.' It's which life has more value," Foley said. "That sounds a lot like what our nation went through in the 1800s, right? When somebody decided somebody's life wasn't worth living or they weren't [worth] quite as much—they were worth what, three-fifths of a human? Is that right? What about what was happening in Europe during the World Wars, where there [were] groups of people that were determined they weren't worth as much?"

Foley said adoption was worse than choosing to parent the child resulting from an unintended pregnancy

September 2016, starting at 38:00, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HgYZ63dXIWM>

Foley outlined the three choices people have: parent the child, give it up for adoption, or have an abortion. She said that having the baby is thought of as "death to them and the life they thought they were going to have," adding. "The next choice is, let's do an adoption plan. Well, that's a double death, because not only does it interrupt [the parents] plans for the next several months, right? But then their child is going to be adopted, and they're going to grow up thinking they've been abandoned by their parents. So they're going to have all kinds of issues with their life. So that's a double death. That's worse.

She said comprehensive sex ed encourages kids to have sex

The report also outlined more of Foley's views on sex ed. "The only thing contraceptive education helps with is the physical consequences of sexual activity," Foley said in a 2009 interview, adding that condoms offer inadequate protection against STIs and that sexual activity among teens can have permanently damaging effects. She also said of comprehensive sex ed programs that she thinks such education "encourages kids to have sex." In a 2010 interview she claimed that it's ineffective to teach condom use alongside abstinence. "I don't think you can do those two things in the same class setting, because I think the message of waiting for sex gets diluted if you are saying, 'But, just in case, use a condom.'" Meanwhile, study after study shows that abstinence-only sex ed not only fails to delay the age at which teenagers have sex, it also doesn't reduce rates of unintended pregnancy or sexually transmitted diseases.

Thank you,
Susan

Hi Terria,

Would you please print this on letterhead for Diane's signature?

Thanks – she needs to transmit it to OGM.

Quick Tips: Three ways to Join Skype Meeting Audio

- Join using computer - Join meeting audio by selecting Use Skype for Business Full Audio option in the Join Meeting Audio window. A Skype certified USB headset is required to use this option.
- Join using computer & phone - Select the Call me at option in the Join Meeting Audio window. Enter your phone number including area code and the system will call you and join you to the meeting audio.
- Join using phone - Select Don't join audio in the Join Meeting Audio window. When dialing into the meeting audio, MITRE participants enter their work number and PIN (MITRE only FJ: UCPIN). Non-MITRE participants do not need a PIN.

Subject: STD/STI monthly literature highlights: June 2018

Dear all,

Each month, CDC/DSTDP reviews the STD/STI literature. We want to highlight a few STD/STI articles that could influence the important work you do. Articles were identified from PubMed searches of selected journals. The link/DOI provided below each article will have information on where you can find full text versions (for some articles you must be connected to an institutional library to access the full text).

1. Characteristics of Cases With Repeated Sexually Transmitted Infections, Massachusetts, 2014-2016.

Hsu KK^{1,2}, Molotnikov LE¹, Roosevelt KA¹, Elder HR¹, Klevens RM³, DeMaria A Jr⁴, Aral SO⁵.

Persons with prior sexually transmitted infections (STIs) are at high risk for reinfection. No recent studies have examined frequency with which persons are diagnosed and reported with multiple bacterial STIs over time.

We conducted a retrospective, of confirmed syphilis, gonorrhea, and chlamydial infections reported to Massachusetts state surveillance system within a 2-year period, 28 July 2014-27 July 2016.

Among Massachusetts population aged 13-65 years (4847510), 49142 (1.0%) were reported with ≥ 1 STIs; 6999 (14.2% of those with ≥ 1 STI) had ≥ 2 STIs, accounting for 27.7% of STIs. Of cases with ≥ 5 or more STIs (high-volume repeaters), 118 (74%) were men and 42 (26%) were women. Men spanned the age spectrum and were predominantly non-Hispanic white; 87% reported same-sex contacts. Women were younger, predominantly nonwhite, and without known same-sex contacts. Women were reinfected with gonorrhea and chlamydia or chlamydia alone; none had syphilis or human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) infection. All men with syphilis also had gonorrhea and/or chlamydia; 35% were diagnosed with HIV before, during, or within 10 months after study period. The majority (56%) of high-volume repeaters were seen at more than 1 care site/system.

In Massachusetts, a large proportion of bacterial STIs are reported from a small subpopulation, many of whom have repeated infections and are likely to have higher impact on STI and HIV rates. Public health can play a crucial role in reaching high-volume repeaters whose STI histories may be hidden from clinicians due to fragmented care.

2. HIV/STI counseling and testing services received by gay and bisexual men using pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) at their last PrEP care visit.

Parsons JT^{1,2,3}, John SA¹, Whitfield THF^{1,2}, Cienfuegos-Szalay J^{1,2}, Groves C^{4,5}.

Pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) reduces risk of HIV infection for many gay and bisexual men (GBM); however, bacterial sexually transmitted infections (STIs) associated with decreasing condom use among users is of concern. Center for Disease Control and Prevention's guidelines for PrEP use recommend bacterial STI screening every six months. We sought to investigate comprehensive PrEP care, defined as: 1) discussion of sexual behavior, 2) blood sample, 3) urine sample, 4) rectal sample (rectal swab), and 5) throat sample (throat swab), provided at user's last PrEP appointment.

PrEP-using GBM in New York City (n = 104) were asked about their last PrEP care visit. We examined associations of demographics (age, race/ethnicity, and education), recent number of condomless anal sex (CAS) events, time on PrEP, and healthcare provider type on receiving comprehensive care at last visit using fully-adjusted binary logistic regression.

At their last visit, nearly all men (94%) gave blood for testing, 88% provided a urine sample, and 77% discussed sexual behavior with their provider. However, only 51% reported having a rectal swab, and 48% an oral swab. Only 32% of men received comprehensive PrEP care at their last PrEP visit. Odds of receiving comprehensive care were significantly higher among younger men, men with a Bachelor's degree or more education, and those who reported more CAS.

Less than one-third of GBM received comprehensive HIV/STI counseling and testing at their last visit. These findings indicate further efforts are needed to prepare healthcare providers for prescribing and managing patients on PrEP.

3. Evaluation of the Implementation of a New Nurse-Led Express "Test-And-Go" Human Immunodeficiency Virus/Sexually Transmitted Infection Testing Service for Men Who Have Sex With Men at a Sexual Health Center in Melbourne, Australia.

Chow EPF, Fortune R, Dobinson S, Wakefield T, Read TRH, Chen MY, Bradshaw CS, Fehler G, Fairley CK.

In August 2015, a nurse-led express human immunodeficiency virus (HIV)/sexually transmitted infection (STI) testing service "Test-And-Go" (TAG) for asymptomatic men who have sex with men (MSM) was implemented in a large public sexual health center in Melbourne, Australia. We aimed to compare the clients' characteristics between the TAG and routine walk-in service among asymptomatic MSM.

This study was conducted at the Melbourne Sexual Health Centre, Australia, between August 5, 2015, and June 1, 2016. General estimating equation logistic regression models were constructed to examine the association between the use of TAG service and clients' demographic characteristics, sexual behaviors, and HIV/STI positivity. Clients' consultation and waiting times for both services were calculated.

Of the 3520 consultations, 784 (22.3%) were TAG services and 2736 (77.7%) were routine walk-in services for asymptomatic MSM. Asymptomatic MSM were more likely to use the TAG service if they were born in Australia (adjusted odds ratio, 1.29; 95% confidence interval, 1.07-1.56), and had more than 6 male partners in the last 12 months (adjusted odds ratio, 1.13; 95% confidence interval, 1.08-1.58). Age, HIV status, condomless anal sex and HIV/STI positivity did not differ between the two services. The TAG service had a shorter median waiting time (8.4 minutes vs 52.9 minutes; $p < 0.001$) and consultation time (8.9 minutes vs 17.6 minutes; $p < 0.001$) than the routine walk-in service.

Although country of birth and sexual behaviors differed between clients attending the 2 services, there were no differences in HIV and STI positivity. Importantly, the TAG service required less waiting and consultation time and hence created additional clinic capacity at the general clinic to see clients who are at higher risk.

Subject: Task 2.8.1: Environmental Scan of Existing Educational Approaches Related to Human Fecundity

Attached please find the initial draft report, Summary of Environmental Scan of Existing Educational Approaches Related to Human Fecundity, for your review.

The FFRDC team conducted the environmental scan to assist OASH/OPA with its goal of gathering information that could lead to recommendations and actions to increase adolescent and young adult knowledge of human fecundity. The purpose of the environmental scan was to identify existing educational interventions with the primary objective of increasing or providing education regarding fertility knowledge and awareness.

CAMH Deliverable:

Task 2.8: Environmental Scan of Existing Educational Approaches Related to Human Fecundity
Deliverable Number 47 in Project Work Plan v.0.5, May 31, 2018.

Task Order HHSP233201700025U

Due Date: June 8, 2018

Government COR: Alicia Richmond Scott

CAMH Project Leader: Stefanie Schmidt

CAMH Project Leader email/phone: sschmidt@mitre.org; 703-983-4074

The FFRDC team will provide an overview of the environmental scan at the OASH/OPA meeting scheduled for Wednesday, June 13 at 10:30 am. We look forward to our discussion.

Warm regards,
Carol

Subject:	Mid-Year PMAP Discussions
Date:	2018/07/12 16:00:58
Importance:	High
Priority:	Urgent
Type:	Note

Hi Everyone,

Just a reminder that, as we discussed during the last OPA Staff Meeting, mid-year PMAP discussions need to be held and documented to occur no later than July 31, 2018. I'll be scheduling individual 30 minute meetings with each staff during the week of July 23 -27 (Terria – you will meet with David). Please come prepared with a list of accomplishments (thus far) that correspond with your critical PMAP elements. Also, in looking over your 2018 PMAP critical elements, please ensure that they accurately reflect your current primary job elements. If there are revisions you would like to make, please make the suggested changes, and print them so we can date and insert them into your PMAP at that time.

Please let me know if any of you have scheduling sensitivities during the week of July 23 that I'll need to be mindful of in scheduling times.

Thanks,
Sue

Additional Information

As NVPO conducts the preparatory work, please take some time to review the attached report, which will guide our work. In the report, NVAC recommends ways to improve HPV vaccination coverage rates by focusing on four areas of activity:

1. Identifying additional national partners;
2. Guiding coalition-building for states;
3. Engaging integrated health care delivery networks; and
4. Addressing provider needs in rural areas.

The recommendations include short, mid, and long-term activities. Some of these activities can be implemented relatively quickly by leveraging existing partnerships or resources from within OASH while others will require outreach and engagement with a broader set of partners outside of OASH and even HHS.

Hi Jackie,

I figured the hotel suggested it. ☺ When we spoke before the 4th holiday, I thought we had agreed not to double the security presence on duty because we didn't want to make people anxious.

Assigning Dr. Foley a security detail will draw attention to her, make her uncomfortable, and make participants anxious, among other concerns.

Please thank the hotel and let them know it is unnecessary. I am glad, however, that they will be on alert. OPA staff will accompany Dr. Foley throughout the day.

Best,

Karen

Subject: Invitation - Expert Panel Meeting - Charleston, SC

Dear Colleagues,

As a key partner in the Choose Well Initiative in South Carolina, The South Carolina Campaign to Prevent Teen Pregnancy (SC Campaign) is requesting your attendance at this important gathering of experts.

For the past 4 years, SC Campaign has conducted 4 – 1 yearlong learning collaboratives. The Collaborative for Reproductive Education and Wellness (CREW) is based on the Institute for Healthcare Improvement's Breakthrough Series Learning Collaborative Model. This model is a proven method to spread evidence in a variety of settings to accomplish a common aim. The common aim of CREW is to improve access to reproductive health care for adolescents in South Carolina.

With 3 yearlong collaboratives complete and the 4th cohort half way done, we at SC Campaign are looking to the future. After having 33 healthcare clinics in 18 counties participate, we are focusing on what works in the clinical area to improve access to reproductive health services for adolescents. And now we have begun to explore the feasibility of developing a certification or accreditation process.

CREW is a learning collaborative developed in South Carolina but does the field need more? Is there an unmet need nationally? These are the questions we are inviting you to discuss with us and each other in beautiful downtown Charleston, SC. The event will be facilitated by Atlas Research (Jamie Hart), who will guide us through the process to answer questions such as:

- Is the field ready to do this work?
- Will funders be willing to support and possibly pay for it?
- In the future, will healthcare teams be willing to pay to participate?

SC Campaign has explored other program certifications to inform the process for the development of a teen-friendly designation, certification, or accreditation. The next phase of research includes an assessment of outcomes data from participating teams, a return-on-investment study, and a qualitative evaluation of the value of participating in the collaborative. The results of this research will be shared with the participants prior to the facilitated discussion.

We are asking you, as an expert and stakeholder, to join us at the Grand Bohemian Hotel (<https://www.kesslercollection.com/bohemian-charleston/>) in Charleston, South Carolina on September 27-28 and December 6-7, 2018. All travel expenses will be covered by SC Campaign through private grant funding. A virtual meeting will be held in October and will last approximately a half day.

The face-to-face meetings will be conducted for 1 ½ days each, a preliminary draft agenda is attached for planning purposes. Please use the following link to register for the September meeting by July 6, 2018:

<http://www.cvent.com/d/8gqq8r>. An additional link for the December meeting will be sent out as the date gets closer.

If you have questions, please don't hesitate to contact me. If you have registration or travel questions, please email Vinicius Rogers at

(b)(6) @teenpregnancysc.org

We hope to see you, or your designee, in Charleston in September and December.

Cheers,

Beth

Judge Rules Against Challenge To Administration's Changes To Title X Program.

Reuters (7/17, O'Brien) reports US District Court Judge Trevor McFadden, who was appointed by President Trump, ruled against three planned Parenthood organizations' and the National Family Planning & Reproductive Health Association's efforts to block Department of Health and Human Services' guidelines that shift Title X family planning program grants "toward prioritizing groups that are faith-based and counsel abstinence." While "the organizations argued that the changes require a notice and comment rule-making process, violate the Title X law and were 'arbitrary and capricious,'" McFadden held that "courts cannot review substantive objections to a non-final agency action, nor can they require formal rulemaking for a change in agency procedure."

Hey there, Brad Kutner here,

I'm a reporter with Courthouse News Service. We're a national civil legal wire with a journalism arm.

I'm writing about a recent decision handed down from a DC court in which HHS's change in grant policy for family planning services was challenged by Planned Parenthood of Wisconsin.

You can see the opinion here.

I'm hoping to get comment from you or someone at your org about the decision.

Any chance you could send me a statement ASAP?

I appreciate the help and will be glad to send you a final copy of the story when it goes live.

Thanks much for your help,

Hi,

My name's Amanda and I'm the health reporter for ThinkProgress.

I wanted to reach out for comment on a federal judge's decision to uphold the Title X FOA.

Additionally, when will Title X grantees be announced, with the judge upholding the decision?

Thank you, Amanda

Subject: Media Inquiry: judge ruling on Title X funding

Hi,

My name's Amanda and I'm the health reporter for ThinkProgress.

I wanted to reach out for comment on a federal judge's decision to uphold the Title X FOA.

Additionally, when will Title X grantees be announced, with the judge upholding the decision?

Thank you, Amanda

Hey there, Brad Kutner here,

I'm a reporter with Courthouse News Service. We're a national civil legal wire with a journalism arm.

I'm writing about a recent decision handed down from a DC court in which HHS's change in grant policy for family planning services was challenged by Planned Parenthood of Wisconsin.

You can see the opinion here.

I'm hoping to get comment from you or someone at your org about the decision.

Any chance you could send me a statement ASAP?

I appreciate the help and will be glad to send you a final copy of the story when it goes live.

Thanks much for your help,

-BK
